Trisha Brown Dance Company
Friday, July 19 & Saturday, July 20 at 8:00pm
Durham Performing Arts Center

As one of the most prolific choreographers of the past century, Trisha Brown has received countless accolades for her influence on the post-modern dance era. The Trisha Brown Dance Company will present a very special program celebrating Ms. Brown's past and present, including her final piece of choreography, I'm going to toss my arms—if you catch them they're yours (2011). With an original composition by Alvin Curran, this breathy work finds the balance between complete abandonment and rigorous structure. Celebrated as one of Brown's most famous works, Set and Reset (1983) is a fluid and seductive dance that explores fleeting visibility through the unpredictably geometric style that has become the hallmark of her work. The company will also perform If you couldn't see me (1994), a solo originally choreographed by and for Ms. Brown, where the audience never quite gets to see the dancer's face but is captured by the willowy and graceful movement of her torso and limbs.

Footprints

After receiving rave reviews for her recent New York debut, Rosie Herrera returns to ADF to share her magic with North Carolina. Her explorations of theater, opera, and dance permeate her flawless choreography that has the ability to bring audiences from laughter to tears. As a choreographer, director, filmmaker, and teacher, Vanessa Voskuil creates interdisciplinary performances that explore the layers and textures of the human experience. Her work, described as “a unique brand of wit and dramatic heft,” has earned her numerous awards including the 2009 McKnight Fellowship for Choreography and Star Tribune’s “9 Minnesota Artists to Expect Great Things.” Since 2009, Adele Myers has been presenting her athletic and robust work in NYC and in over 50 venues throughout the New England region. ### Forces of Dance

Durham Performing Arts Center

Forces of Dance will feature four works, including a world premiere, by highly acclaimed choreographers, Martha Graham, Lin Hwai-min, Bill T. Jones, and Twyla Tharp. This performance celebrates recipients of the Samuel H. Scripps/American Dance Festival Award for Lifetime Achievement and showcases the incredible talent of ADF students. The performance will include 2013 Scripps/ADF Award recipient Lin Hwai-min's 1998 solo from his masterpiece Moon Water, performed by Cloud Gate Dance Theatre dancer Chou Chang-ning. As a poetic meditation of the Taoist philosophy, the work explores the study of time and the balance found in Yin and Yang. The additional works on the program will be performed by the ADF Six Week School students. In an unprecedented performance, Twyla Tharp will present an ADF commissioned world premiere created specifically for ADF students. Tharp's 130th dance work will featuring her iconic movement vocabulary and an original score created just for this occasion by David Kahne. Martha Graham, one of ADF's four founders, has had far-reaching influence on the dance field. In a special homage to Graham, ADF will reconstruct Ritual To the Sun from her legendary work Acts of Light (1981). Inspired by her revolutionary dance technique, the work celebrates the dancer as an exquisite instrument of expression. Bill T. Jones' arresting ensemble work Love Re-Defined (1996) will also grace the stage. Drawing from Jones' distinct and poetic style and set to a whimsical soundtrack by Daniel Johnston, the work is an energetic reflection on love and human relationships.
