Vertigo Dance Company

Thursday, June 12 & Friday, June 13 at 8:00pm
Durham Performing Arts Center

Celebrating twenty years of Vertigo Dance Company’s creations, Noa Wertheim’s festive production Vertigo 20 attempts to re-decipher the secret of time. Vertigo 20, a co-production of Fondazione Campania dei Festival – Teatro Festival Italia and Vertigo Dance Company, is the company’s largest-scale production to date. The piece is a kind of retrospective of Wertheim’s work that moves from real to surreal, from intimate to theatrical, from impalpable to tangible. Unique movement language accentuated by wit and hinted sadness takes the spectator on an unexpected and inspiring journey through unknown worlds.

Gregory Maqoma/Vuyani Dance Theatre
Saturday, June 14-Monday, June 16 at 8:00pm
Reynolds Industries Theater

Taking inspiration from his ancestral past, South African choreographer Gregory Maqoma's moving, evening-length solo Exit/Exist blends storytelling with a powerful dance vocabulary and dynamic live music in an examination of race, political power, and the melding of past and present. Maqoma reveals the history and fate of his ancestor, a 19th century Xhosa warrior, who fought to maintain cultural traditions in the face of colonial rule. Through his signature integration of traditional and contemporary dance, Maqoma invites audiences to reflect on who we are, where we come from, and how all of these facets, past and present, inform our personal and collective identities today.

Niv Sheinfeld & Oren Laor
Tuesday, June 17 at 7:00pm & 9:00pm
Nasher Museum of Art

This performance contains nudity.

ADF and Nasher Museum of Art at Duke University co-present Two Room Apartment by Israeli choreographers Niv Sheinfeld & Oren Laor. Sheinfeld and Laor have recreated the seminal 1987 work Two Room Apartment, which helped put Israeli dance on the map. This award-winning work, originally created and performed by the male and female couple Nir Ben Gal and Liat Dro, has been reworked as a dance for two men. The duet reflects on their relationship as partners in life and as creators. Both personal and political, the work examines boundaries in various contexts: physical borders, such as between territories or between two rooms, but also non-physical borders, such as the one between life and performance, and the boundaries that the individual sets for himself. There will be limited chair seating available, on a first-come first-served basis, for these performances. Additional seating will be available on the floor, and audience members will also have the option of standing.

Performance is approximately 50 minutes.

Here and Now: NC Dances
Wednesday, June 18 at 7:00pm & 9:00pm
Reynolds Industries Theater

ADF and NC Dance Festival (NCDF) are delighted to co-present four dance works by North Carolina choreographers. Selected by nationally recognized choreographers Mark Dendy, Adele Myers, and Zoe Scofield, the works of the four chosen artists celebrate dance being created here and now, at home in North Carolina.

Renay Aumiller Dances will present Acquiring Dawn, inspired by Cormac McCarthy's The Road. This work portrays a post-apocalyptic environment, a world of dualities: hope and despair, truth and prophecy, and nature and industry. Gaspard & Dancers' work Annatations, by Gaspard Louis, evokes a dream state where the souls that perished in the catastrophic 2010 Haiti earthquake reconnect before moving on to their final destination, a place where all life began. A Place Apart, a tender yet strong duet for two men choreographed by Diego Carrasco Schoch, uses text and Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata to depict intimacy, entanglement, support, and the need for space inherent within relationships. Leah Wilks' company Vector presents Mess and asks the questions, "How does the body react when the world makes no sense? Does it shut down? Does it ignore or fight back? Does it try to control, to compartmentalize, to make meaning out of nothing? Can it ever learn to let go?"
