Dynamic DuosMonday, June 29-Wednesday, July 1 at 8:00pm*Reynolds Industries Theater

What happens when you pair up some of today's hottest choreographers to create new duets that they themselves will dance? You get Dynamic Duos! Superheroes! Larry Keigwin & Rosie Herrera, Mark Haim & Jesse Zaritt, Chris Yon & Taryn Griggs, and Claire Porter & Sara Juli were given the task of putting their creative bodies together to produce and perform works that would be like no other. Expect to be amazed. Expect the unexpected. Expect a one-of-a-kind evening of dance!

Paul Taylor Dance CompanyThursday, July 2 & Friday, July 3 at 8:00pm*Durham Performing Arts Center

Paul Taylor Dance Company will be back to present the classic work Esplanade (1975). Set to Bach and based on everyday movement: walking, running, jumping, and sliding, the dance remains as daringly exuberant and eloquent today as the day it premiered. Syzygy (1987), set to Donald York's abstract, pulsating score, is a virtuosic work that explodes with cartwheels, leaps, and meteoric spins. The title refers to the nearly straight-line configuration of three or more celestial bodies. With decor by Alex Katz and lighting design by Jennifer Tipton, Last Look will round out the program.

FESTIVAL EXTRASA Body in Fukushima*FREE!

In 2014, dancer/choreographer Eiko Otake and historian/photographer William Johnston followed abandoned train tracks to desolate stations and eerily vacant towns and fields in Fukushima Prefecture, Japan. After the earthquake and tsunami on March 11, 2011, the radiation released from the damaged Fukushima Daiichi Nuclear Plant required the immediate evacuation of all inhabitants from a large area. Although some parts are now open for short daytime visits, most former residents are still refugees from their homes and businesses, and the central zone around the nuclear plant will remain uninhabitable for decades or longer. During their time in Fukushima in January and July 2014, Johnston photographed Eiko, amid this deserted landscape, as she danced her grief, anger, and remorse. A Body in Fukushima is a project of witness, remembrance, and empathy. The photographs will be exhibited at:
